

CAUGHT ON CAMPUS

Fashion at work

Featuring AIFL staff

By Khristine Bueno

Who: Richard White

Occupation: Assistant Dean of Academic Affairs

Style Sense: Simple and sleek

Wear: Faconnable Shirt (that's French for fashionable)

Where: Nordstrom

How much: $155.

Style verdict: Effortless sophisticate.

Richard White is our new assistant dean of academic affairs. Mr. White has been at the Art Institute for just six weeks (at the time of our fashion finding), making him one of the newest members of our faculty. When I asked him how he was adjusting to AI he simply said he "loves it". He's not just an assistant dean though, he's also a painter, has been for twenty-five years. If you ever want to see his work just step into his office where he displays his beautiful and colorful abstract paintings on his walls.

I stopped into Mr. White's office after his button down collared shirt caught my eye. He said it was a French company called Faconnable. The company is known for its high quality cotton and use of great designs and colors. Mr. White swears by Faconnable saying, "It's the only button down dress shirt I wear". Well chosen!

Why This Works

Great stlye as seen on campus

By Khristine Bueno and Christina Williams

Who: Janelle Gutierrez
Major: Fashion Merchandising
Occupation: Sales Associate
Style sense: Dramatic/Urban style

Style sense:

Janelle was really in style for Fall and she has essential must-haves on: The high waist belt and gladiator sandals to match.

Style verdict: Sassy and cute!

Wear:

Dress - Zara $30
 Belt - Target $20
 Ring - Forever 21 $5
 Sandals - Baker $50
 Overall cost: $105

Who: Jen Parker
Major: Fashion Merchandising
Occupation: Sales Associate
Style sense: Bohemian/artsy chic

Style sense:

Jen has a very interesting/eclectic style. Her plaid skirt texture and length give an indication of the season's readiness to change. Her scarf gives the outfit a bit of sparkle and makes for a great accessory. Her secret: Most of the outfit is from a thrift store! Now that's what's called saving in style.

Wear:

Tank top - Lucky Brand $28
 Scarf - Thrift store $2
 Skirt - Thrift store $8
 Sandals - Urban Outfitters $30
 Necklace - Urban Outfitters $8
 Overall cost: $76
 The look: Priceless!

Who: Camal Williams
What: Second quarter, Fashion Merchandising major.

Style sense:

Fun & Trendy. Camal is climbing up the fashion ladder as he stays up to date with trends. Camal is a true fan of coach and Nike. The skinny jeans, jute belt and tote add pizzazz to the "fresh-out-of-college" look.

Wear:

Shoes=Nike Blazers(low top)=$89.00
 Black skinny leg jeans from Forever 21=$39.00
 Hollister white printed t-shirt =$23.00
 Beige, belt from Hollister"29" waist=$18.00
 •Beige Hollister Bag=$20.00
 •Blackberry Curve" from T-mobile=$300.00

Caught at work!

Why this look works for Cristal Sumer Amerson

By Christina Williams

Cristal Amerson was caught at work by the ICON fashion police for her fashion sense. Amerson is a college student and currently works at Carters Children's Wear at the Sawgrass Mall. Amerson's style is relaxed and very age appropriate and her favorite shopping haunt is Pac Sun. We love the purple and black combo, the colors are season forward and look nice on Amerson. Even though she is a college student watching her budget, her ability to mix and match college and work looks is great! Accessories are balanced and the overlook is just right and not overdone.

The look:

- * Purple Tank top from Pac Sun=$13.00
- * Black button up from Old Navy=$20.00
- * Black Skinny Jeans from Pac Sun=$40.00
- * Black shinny belt from Pac Sun=$40.00
- * Juicy Couture Earrings =$50.00
- * Black and Purple Nike Dunks =$105.00
- * Coach Purse=$145.00
